Scottish Dancing is FUN!

An image from the Society’s new suite of material to assist in the promotion of Scottish country dancing, which also includes introductory leaflets. Further details may be found at http://www.rscds.org/about-us/promotional-material.html

Issue No 281 will be with UK based members by 28 April 2012 unless delayed in the post. Contributions for that issue should be sent to Jeremy Hill, 6 Gilpin Green, Harpenden, Herts, AL5 5NR. Issue No 283 will arrive by 9 February 2013.

The opinions expressed by contributors in The Reel do not necessarily reflect the official position of the RSCDS, nor of the Branch.
CHAIRMAN’S THOUGHTS
I write this in St Andrews, ready for a week at Summer School while excited at the prospect of seeing Team GB competing in the Olympics. What a summer in London, and, hopefully by the time you read this, our successful Kensington Gardens afternoons of dancing will have taken place, showing to a wider audience how much fun they too could have with Scottish country dancing.

As discussed at the Branch AGM the committee have huge concerns about the future of Scottish country dancing in London – especially regarding classes. How do we attract new members to our Basic Skills class? How do we encourage dancers to achieve a better standard of technique by attending our advanced classes? Please do let us know what you think.

I’m off to teach the High Impact class tomorrow morning and looking forward to meeting a new class ready for a challenging week. Summer School has lots of memories for me – from being a teenager asked to play at St Andrews, seeing fantastic teachers in action encouraging all who attended to dance to the best of their ability, hearing the variety of musicians with the history of solo pianists and the diversity of bands at the Younger Hall, and meeting dancers from all around the world using the common language of Scottish country dancing to communicate – all language barriers broken down by dancing together. For me the overriding feeling is always the fun that I’ve had there and the friendships that I’ve made.

Communicating that enjoyment is key to how we attract new members – but I’m sure you all have ideas of how we can do that too. So please find a committee member, share with them any thoughts you have and let’s look forward to keeping London Branch successful long into the 21st century.

If you’ve been dancing somewhere exotic this summer make sure you let Jeremy, our new editor of The Reel, know about it. We welcome Jeremy to the committee and look forward to seeing The Reel develop under his editorship. Many thanks too to Wilson for all his years of service – personally I’ve been very grateful to Wilson for all his wise words and advice throughout my time in the Branch. I’m also sure he won’t be too far away to help out but in the meantime thanks again Wilson.

The committee are looking forward to the year ahead, starting with our dance on the 15th September dancing to the music of Craigellachie. I hope to see and dance with you there.

EDITORIAL
It is with some trepidation that I take on the role of editor of The Reel, given its illustrious history. Rather like Rio looking to follow the excellence of London 2012 it will be a challenge to match the great work that has been done over the years, by editors and all those who work away behind the scenes. I hope to live up to that tradition in shaping a magazine of real interest and value to the readership.

The Reel was first established as a cost-effective “Members” bulletin to replace the sundry leaflets previously sent out to give notice of dances, classes and meetings” (as reported in the Society Bulletin sixty years ago), and it still fulfils a key role in providing information to members and also non-members. However, other media, including the Branch website and e-mail bulletins also fulfil this function for many people.

Where The Reel continues to have a key role is as a medium for the sharing of opinion and wider information on matters related to Scottish dance – and I expect to interpret that relationship quite widely. The article on Ballroom dance by Dennis Tucker here is one example. I am keen to build on the interests of members to explore and write about aspects of Scottish dance, music and related areas and as such encourage your submissions. It is always easier to plan if these can be anticipated, so please do get in touch if you have an idea in mind.

I am learning about some of the specifics of putting the magazine together, and have come to appreciate in particular the efforts of John Reece. For over 20 years John has done the graphic artist work required to get the material into a publishable format, but has decided the time has come to step back. He has done a fantastic job behind the scenes and I would like to thank him on behalf of the Branch.

One specific area concerns the photos, not an area in which I have any expertise – as evidenced by some of the photos I have taken of dancing over the years. As such I would be very interested to hear from anyone who would like to get involved in particular in this area as a Photo Editor.

I welcome comments that you may have on all elements of The Reel and look forward to continuing its development.

SUMMER BALL
29 June 2013
A long time away, you may think but 2013 is the year the Society will celebrate 90 years of working towards the fun, fitness and friendship of Scottish country dancing, something to celebrate indeed. In 1998 the South East Branches was the first group to organise a ‘rally’ or ball to celebrate the Society’s 75th Anniversary; from the success of that event the South East Branches Coordinating Committee was formed.
Wandsworth Civic Suite has been newly decorated and provides a more attractive venue for such an event; Ian Murt’s six member Craigellachie Band will, as everyone knows, give us the most wonderful dancing music and people from all over will be there.
You can book your tickets now (see advertisement on the cover). Tickets will be sent out at the beginning of October (if you wish immediate confirmation of receipt of your cheque send Pat your email address) but a word of warning – to avoid any overcrowding numbers will be strictly limited so make sure you send your booking early!

SOUTH EAST REGION TEACHERS’ ASSOCIATION
The South East Region Teachers’ Association (SERTA) organises workshops for Scottish dance teachers. The next workshop is on Sunday 30 September 2012 in Finchampstead. The morning session, “Making the best use of our voice”, will be led by Katy Salt, a Speech and Language Therapist who specialises in voice. In the afternoon, Mervyn Short will be looking at some of the more complex RSCDS dances, hoping to convince you that they are “Easy when you know how”. The following meeting will be in Hemel Hempstead on Sunday 17 March 2013, with more details in the next issue of The Reel.
There will be another Teachers’ Association conference in Aberdeen on Friday 2 November, at the beginning of the RSCDS AGM weekend. We hope to have another strong representation as we did at the first TAs’ conference in Perth in 2010.
SERTA is open to anyone who leads an SCD group, whether qualified or not, those with a dance teaching qualification and those taking dance teaching qualification and those taking

Youth at Summer School
For the first time in its history, this year the Society opened up Summer School to young people from age twelve to fifteen. Six attended, from Scotland, Northern Ireland, North America and France. They had a great time in St Andrews alongside the adults. In the ceilidh they danced Domino Five and danced their Highland and ladies’ step routines.
New friendships have been made and I think that Facebook will be busy every day as they talk to each other online. One of the participants sent an email saying, “I really enjoyed my first time at Summer School...it was so much fun. Thank you to everyone who helped me! I hope I can come back next year.” Plans are in hand to make that possible and encourage more to join for 2013.

Jim Stott (Depute Director, Weeks 3 and 4)

BRANCH AGM
The Branch held its Annual General Meeting on 15 June in the Upper Hall at St. Columba’s, Pont Street. Only 32 members were present, a fact picked up by our Chairman, Angela Young, in her opening remarks. She went on to say that 2011-12 had been a busy year for the Branch, a year in which we were celebrating the 60th Anniversary of The Reel but we faced serious financial problems. In response the Committee had put together a package of measures that it believed would secure our future.
There was some lively debate around the Treasurer’s report on the accounts and a motion to increase the Branch fee. One member questioned why, with £498 on the balance sheet, any increase was necessary. Simon Wales replied that this was scarcely enough to cover one year’s expenditure. Generally members supported the Committee’s approach, and several speakers made suggestions for halting the decline in membership and making the collection of fees more efficient. Some questioned whether the proposed increases went far enough. The motion was carried, and a new appeal for donations was made to life members (see p.8).

Other items on the agenda passed with little comment. The Branch Report had been sent to members with the previous issue of The Reel and was approved unanimously, Mary Stoker was appointed once again with acclaim as our President and there were fewer nominees for Committee than places available. The votes for election but Jeremy Hill replaced Wilson Nicol and Bar Martlew was subsequently co-opted onto the Committee.

Any Other Business produced more food for thought on, for example, the location of classes and the potential benefits of a national database. There were reminders about our dancing in Kensington Gardens over the period of the Olympics and Paralympics (though unfortunately, as one member pointed out, SCD would not feature in the Olympic Opening Ceremony) and there was some advance publicity on the South East Branches’ Ball in June 2013 for the Society’s 90th Anniversary.
Angela Young thanked the Committee and all the other members who had worked so hard for the Branch during the year. There was a round of applause for the Vice Presidents who had prepared refreshments and a presentation was made to Wilson Nicol to mark his retirement as Editor of The Reel. The minutes for next year’s meeting was subsequently set for Saturday 15 June, before dancing, with a view to boosting attendance. Finally, chairs were stacked and footwear changed so we could enjoy some Scottish country dances.

Marlborough School Classes
Dear Jeremy
Having just received my copy of The Reel and the Branch report I felt that I should let you know that information re classes is incorrect. The report indicated the earliest record of classes at Marlborough School was in September 1974, but I attended an advanced class there in the 1960’s taken by Bill Hamilton. According to old copies of The Reel, classes started there in 1958, a beginners’ class taken by Nan Summers and an elementary one by Elma Taylor!

Demonstration team update

During this fantastic summer with the Queen’s Jubilee, the Olympics and the Paralympics, the demonstration team has enjoyed excellent dancing and sharing of the team’s skills. This included dancing at the opening of the Diorama Arts Centre’s month-long Olympic-themed festival near Regents Park, and accepting an invitation from a primary school in South London to join their Jubilee tea party.

Primary School enjoyment

The brief from the school was: to teach eight of the older children a dance for them to show the whole school at the tea party; to have all the children, with an age range of 3-11 years old, dance another Scottish country dance; and to demonstrate a variety of Scottish dance forms (country, ladies’ step and highland), and all of this in the one afternoon!

The children were brilliant, with so much laughter and fun, the team kept smiling despite it being a really hot day, the piper (Roger Hugh) played beautifully and before we knew it the afternoon was over and parents were waiting at the gates. Every child joined in the dancing when it was their turn, with many showing their parents how to ‘dance Scottish’ at the end. Exhausting, but really great.

Appeal for further dancers

The wide range of demonstrations and gigs that we do so successfully is down to the commitment, talent and hard work of the whole team and its teacher, Paul Plummer. That said the team still need more dancers, especially men. If you would like to join us, and consider that you have both the stamina and skill base required, please feel free to speak with either Paul Plummer or me on plummers5@ntlworld.com or me on demteam@rscdslondon.org.uk or 07779 202529. We really do have a great time and the classes are brilliant. Even if you think you may not be quite ready yet please still come and talk with either of us for advice as we would love to hear from you.

The Origins of Scottish Country Dancing

Week 6 of The Apprentice found the teams competing in Edinburgh for maximum sales of gourmet street food. One pitch was in Parliament Square, a piper was found and two of the number, to bring the punters in, tried their hand at Scottish dancing! In the satirical follow-up programme chaired by Dara O’Briain he was describing this busy street scene of the piper and dancers when comedian Kevin Bridges quipped, “that was how Scottish country dancing was born — you have to weave yourself through, to get to the food!” It seems that even Karen, Alan and Nick plus all of the viewing public have now heard of SCD!

Perhaps Margaret, we should be holding an Apprentice Class too, along with the other classes at our Day School in October!

Stephen Webb
BIL CLEMENT, MBE
25 March 1923 – 17 June 2012
It is with great sadness that we heard recently of the death of Bill Clement, one of the great characters in the history of the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society, and also a significant figure in the piping and Highland dance worlds.

His devotion to the education of young people in piping and dancing was recognised when he was made MBE in 2008, and the breadth of his influence may be seen in the award he received from the Japanese Council General, bestowed by the Japanese foreign ministry for strengthening ties between Japan and Scotland.

Born into a Perth family with a long tradition of piping, he started with the Boys Brigade band. His own education was curtailed at thirteen, but subsequently his ambition took him to evening classes and he became an apprentice joiner. He joined the Black Watch in 1942, where he perfected his piping, and he ended up as Pipe Major of the 10th Battalion. It was in the army that he first learnt to dance, and by the time he left in 1946 he was appointed Senior Instructor in Highland Dancing and Country Dancing at Redford Barracks in Edinburgh.

After the War he moved into education, first teaching in Tayside for eight years, and then at the Wallace Hall Academy in Dumfriesshire, with whom he remained associated until his death. He was invited in 1947 to join the Atholl Highlanders, whom he served for 52 years, and from whom he retired in 1998, and devoted enormous energy to teaching the Men’s Highland class.

After the War he moved into education, first teaching in Tayside for eight years, and then at the Wallace Hall Academy in Dumfriesshire, with whom he remained associated until his death. He was invited in 1947 to join the Atholl Highlanders, whom he served for 52 years, and from whom he retired in 1998, and devoted enormous energy to teaching the Men’s Highland class.

Though he retired from the classroom in 1983, he lived a very full retirement, not least in dancing. He was Chairman of the Society between 1996 and 1998, and devoted enormous energy to spreading the word internationally.

Andrew Kellett recalls Bill, as RSCDS Vice-Chairman, attending a big dance exhibition at Kensington Olympia, where the Branch had a stand, and watching the demonstration team perform. Later, as Chairman, he encouraged branches to get together to hold ‘rallies’ to celebrate the Society's 75th Anniversary. Not many branches bothered, but the South East branches organised a combined ball at the Watford Colosseum, the first of several joint South East Branches events.

Bill and Atsuko came, bringing the Rt Hon Peregrine Moncreiff of Moncrieff along. Bill had been responsible for Peregrine becoming a Vice-President of the Society. He had numerous contacts among the Scottish gentry and was very conscious of the important role played by the ‘big houses’ in keeping Scottish country dancing alive before the Society took hold.

Consequently his view of the development of Scottish country dancing differed from that of Jean Milligan. He had particular views on the wearing of hard shoes to dance at balls, on which he wrote about in The Reel 260. There is also a video, available at http://sccdkaieidoscopep1.strathspey.org/videos/05-bill-clement.

Bill had a great interest in passing on the skill of playing the bagpipes for country dancing – not a given amongst pipers. His legacy includes various recordings of pipe music for country dancing, which, in the digital age, can be found on ITunes and Spotify.

His most well-known contribution to the Society’s publications is the name tune for Roy Goldring’s dance The Saltire Society Reel, one of a string of tunes he composed that successfully cross the bridge between pipe tunes and country dance tunes (some may not realize this is a pipe tune). They were published in 2011 in a book that was one of the last things he worked on and is available from HQ.

In linking the traditions of Scottish country dancing to today’s world of dancing, Bill Clement represents a key line of development from the halls and halls of the great houses, as well as connecting the piping and Highland dancing worlds to our country dancing. He will be missed in all these spheres.

OLIVE MACNEIL
29 April 1942 – 21 January 2012
West London has lost one of its popular dance teachers.

Olive MacNeil began dancing as a young girl at Hayes & District Scottish Association, which had been set up in 1956 to promote Scottish dancing for parents and children. She was in the club demonstration team and gained her MISTD in 1977. Olive taught Scottish dancing to adults at an evening class and started a children’s class, where she guided many young dancers to an enjoyment of Scottish Dancing and to achieve their medals. In 1975 she became the instructor at Hayes, a task she carried out with great skill, dedication and patience until her illness in 2011. She also organised demonstrations for schools, colleges and church groups and also dancing weekends.

Olive met her husband Don in August 1959 on a visit to Stornaway. They shared a love of dancing and gardening. She loved working with young children and ran Praymates, a Mother and Toddlers group based at St Margaret’s Church, Uxbridge.

Olive will be greatly missed by Don, Robert, Fiona and all her family and dancing friends. In her memory we have compiled a dance Olive MacNeil of Hayes.

SUSI MAYR
December 1956 – 11 July 2012
We are sorry also to announce the recent passing of Susi Mayr. Based in Vienna, she was Chairman of the International Branch, organiser of the first international Scottish country dancing conference, and a very popular teacher of country dancing and step dance. She taught at several weekend schools in London, and for the last five years has taught at the Chiswick Scottish Country Dance Club.

September sees the start of Series 10 of BBC Television’s Strictly Come Dancing. At the time of going to print, the participants are not known. What if there were Scottish Dancers amongst the contestants? How would they get on? Dennis and Diana Tucker, from the RSCDS Oxfordshire Branch, decided only quite recently to explore the world of Ballroom dance. Here is how they got on, and thoughts on comparisons with the original SCD – Scottish Country Dancing.

At my 80th birthday party, to show that there was still some life in the old legs, Diana and I performed the Birthday Waltz, which was a little bit tricky, requiring neat execution of the old-time rotary step, natural and reverse; so we quickly decided that we needed a lesson or two from a professional teacher. These lessons were so enjoyable and instructive that we decided to learn some proper ballroom dancing.

With advancing years it was becoming apparent that while body bulk was increasing muscle bulk was diminishing, making the hop, which is an essential part of Scottish country dancing, more and more of a strain. Each hop leaves lifting your whole bodyweight vertically and for those dancing properly (not all of us, sad to say) that happens once in each bar – almost once a second in reels and jigs and three times a second in pas de basque. For ageing muscles and joints this is rather risky and the attraction of ballroom dancing, where you glide from foot to foot, was obviously strong.

We started with one weekly half-hour session of private tuition and we chose to work on waltz and quickstep. This was because porgy years ago, in my school-teaching days, we had needed to know a bit about them in order to supervise school dances. The quickstep waltz is much slower than the old-time waltzes which are used in Scottish party dances and it requires poise, rise and fall, elegance. The quickstep is exactly what its name suggests and we had always found it exciting to do just the basic travelling step round the room with a spin turn in each corner. We were quickly informed that much more than this is required: a variety of movements with neatness and precision. As we tussled with these and later the more sophisticated moves, our teacher decided that we should attempt our Bronze Medal which, after much hard work and great anxiety and trepidation, we achieved at the end of our first year.

Gold Medallists

As our second year began our teacher advised us to add the footwork to our schedule and attempt the Silver Medal. A year later we moved on to an even more demanding teacher, adding the tango, with its very different tempo and rhythm, different stance, hold and foot positions and a new element of the dramatic. The aim was the Gold Medal: four routines to remember, higher standards of precision required, with much nervous tension. We doubled the length of our weekly lesson and in the end, rather to our surprise, all went well and we received our Gold Medal.

What we had been trained to do was to perform our four different, fairly intricate routines on an empty floor. Dancing these routines would, of course, be impossible on a crowded dance floor with little empty space and a need to navigate a course between the other dancing couples. The art that I have yet to learn is that of separating the various components of our routines and performing them singly on occasions where they are appropriate.

It is almost sixty years since I started Scottish country dancing, so it will surprise nobody when I say that I find ballroom dancing by far the more difficult of the two, in spite of its gentler demands on muscles and joints.

Of course, in Scottish we have our steps to learn, skip change, slip step, pas de basque, strathspey travelling and setting – and to do these precisely and elegantly is far from easy. Then we have a large number of figures to memorise, from reels and rights and lefts to the lourrée and the toursbillon. We have three tempi: reel, jig and strathspey, and in these too, we aim at precision and elegance. All these elements are demanding in themselves but the context in which they are performed is far more controlled and helpful in Scottish dancing than in ballroom. To begin with, we dance in sets of couples with nice straight lines, or sometimes squares, which we can regard as ‘home’, to which we can return regularly or in times of crisis. Any one dance will be limited to 32, 40 or 48 bars and it will be repeated four or eight times, so that we all get better at it as the dance progresses. And we also get two 32 bar rests in most dances when we can watch and learn from the others. Moreover, we dance as a team so that all the members of a set can help each other, especially in moments of forgetfulness.

Everything gets more complex

In ballroom things are more complex, with many more variables and no guidance from other dancers. We dance as an individual couple. There are the four different tempi already mentioned – to say nothing of the many line variations – with changes of rhythm for waltz and tango, the latter having also a special character and style. Each dance has its own basic step for travelling and a simple way of managing corners but beyond that the myriad movements and figures are bafflingly variable to the learner. We need to remember: which foot do I start on? Am I going forwards, backwards or sideways? Starting on heel or toe, changing when? Ballroom hold or opening into promenade or other hold? Is my first step between or outside my partner’s feet? Is the turn a quarter, half or other fraction? Which way should I be facing at the end of the figure? Which way should my feet be facing at the end of it? The figures may vary in length from two bars upwards to any number and they may be linked in almost any order.

To grasp all these ideas afresh, after sixty years of Scottish country dancing, is very hard on the brain. Old habits die hard. I remember being taught at Summer School in the 80s to make a daily habit of standing in first position, e.g. while washing up or standing in a queue. I duly achieved this worthy aim only to be told by our demanding teacher, “You don’t need first position, keep your feet parallel”. She demands very high standards and doesn’t mince her words: “Your feet are all wrong!” “You’re facing the wrong way”. “Are you meant to be dancing WITH that partner?” “No! Not on your…. toes!”

As a latecomer to serious ballroom dancing I find the challenges daunting, especially hard on a failing memory, but the satisfaction of getting everything right – on rare occasions – is wonderful. With my dancing background I find ballroom far more difficult than Scottish. Would Scottish be more difficult for a dancer with comparable ballroom experience? I would guess not.

Unilever – Strictly Come Scottish Dancing

A request came into the RSCDS for a teacher to teach one dance to a group within the company for a formal evening when each department was required to do “any dance”. The manager of the group I looked after was Scottish and he decided his group were to dance the The Dashing White Sergeant. We had one practice attended by 22 members of his team. Having arrived with a distinct lack of enthusiasm as the practice was during part of their lunch hour, they were extremely high spirited by the time they left. In fact so enthusiastic were they that the two people in the team who had not attended the practice decided they wanted to join in for the demonstration so private practices were held during the week and they also decided who was to dance with whom for the competition. The evening was set out as Strictly Come Dancing, with three judges including an identikit of Craig Revel-Horwood. When it was our turn we had an introduction by the compere and came in three across to walk around the dance area before joining up for the dance. The dancing itself, accompanied by Yvonne McGuinness on accordion, was very energetic with growing comments from the audience as the men were all in “kilts” of tartan material in the form of a skirt!

After some banter about knees and legs and formal “interviews” by a second MC our scores were 10, 10 and 10 from all 3 judges. We won the top prize and received the trophy. The dancers were delighted. More importantly the dancing served the exact purpose for which it was intended, which was for group participation and team building following the day the whole company had spent at the venue with that as their agenda.

INSPIRATIONAL WORKSHOP
Liam Stewart from Galstone, champion accordionist, music teacher and band leader came to London on 19 May and led a workshop for musicians, which was also much appreciated by those dancers who came to the evening dance. Here are the views of two of the participants:

Liam Stewart has played for the Branch once before – at the Branch Jubilee celebrations in Kensington Gardens two years ago when he brought his three piece band to London. We enjoyed his music then but at the workshop on 19 May we realised more fully his potential. 15 fairly experienced musicians came to St Columba’s to participate in what was a truly inspirational day of playing. Liam is a first class honours graduate of music from the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland, formerly known as the Royal Scottish Academy of Music and Drama, and teaches music at a very fortunate school in Strathclyde.

In working through the selections for the evening dance he tutored us in the styles of playing, the selection of music and the essence of playing for dancing, emphasising the essentials of mutual feedback between dancers and musicians, all of which were so well demonstrated at the evening dance. The portfolio of music he sent us to practise beforehand raised some apprehension, particularly with the many tunes in E flat – a rather unusual key for Scottish dance music, but one sometimes chosen by fiddlers specifically to make tunes difficult for others to play. He started off the workshop at a cracking pace but soon had us following: his whole being exuded confidence and music – no need to read manuscript for his performances! Once the afternoon session was over, Liam treated us to an impromptu concert played on Tony Doyle’s Roland electronic accordion covering a wide range from Classical to folk music and speeds from very slow to very fast. Our many thanks to the Committee members who kept us well watered and fed during the day.

Fortunately, most of the participants were able to stay for the evening dance – and were not disappointed. All of us, musicians and dancers, left on a high. There is no doubt we will be enjoying more of Liam Stewart in the future.

A Simply Fabulous Day
There are good musicians, superb musicians, virtuosi and then there is Liam. After a discussion and Liam’s demonstration of what was being wanted to hear, we played the first piece and from the first bar we were swinging together in an exhilarating manner that is heard too little.

I was thinking it was an amazing piece of luck, but no such thing: we were into the next set of tunes and again swinging along amazingly, and so it continued through all 60-odd pieces of music. The strathspeys were both a revelation and experience, with a great contrast between the “floaty” and the more driving tunes, none of the one size fits all philosophy that is so prevalent. My personal belief is that strathspeys are best on a fiddle as the bowing and vibrato make possible the shaping of notes which non-stringed instruments cannot do; but Liam revealed all the possibilities on the accordion – not the cutting of tunes into chunks you so often hear from boxes and pianos. This was a unique experience, so exhilarating that it made me want to dance, even though I gave up dancing years ago!

So we were all ready and waiting for the dance but where were the dancers? There were nearly more in the band than there were on the floor, contrasting sharply with my memories of Pont Street dances when it was hard to find somewhere to sit, and the floor was packed. It was a great pity because those who were not there missed something all too rare, and a huge amount of work, organisation and cost went into that day. The dancers certainly enjoyed the music as I learned talking with many of them during the interval. Perhaps London Branch should forget about absentee dancers and organise more Music Day Schools?

So what can one say of Liam? He is a virtuoso, both as a player and a leader, skills that seldom combine in one person, but in Liam they certainly do. To take a collection of musicians from far flung points and get us all playing, not simply as a unit, but as a highly expressive unit, swinging together, demonstrates his incredible ability. London Branch should certainly have him back for another day school, never mind about the dancers!

To top off the musical experience we were all very grateful for the magnificent way in which the “galley slaves” kept us all fed and watered all day right up to the interval in the dance. A very big thank you to all who were involved in organising this wonderful day.

A Collection of Dances to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee

To celebrate this year’s Diamond Jubilee of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, patron of the Society, a special collection of dances, music and photographs has been produced, in a limited edition of 1,000 copies.

From the many dances submitted, six have been selected: two reels, three strathspeys and one jig. The choice covers a range from complex to simple: a three couple strathspey and a square dance – something for everyone.

The Royal Patron, devised by Philip Whitley of Edinburgh Branch, has interesting ways into traditional formations, and will satisfy those who like a challenge. It is dedicated to Robert Mackay, who suggested the title and the busy William Marshall reel as the original tune.

The Castle of Mey (also a reel), devised by John Walton of Hamilton, Ontario, begins with Inveran reels, and finishes with my favourite poussette, a lovely straightforward dance. The Castle was Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother’s residence in the far North of Scotland, where she spent some time during the year.

The other dances have less overt Royal connections: Meryn Short of the BHS Border Branch chose the name for the strathspey Mist o’er the Loch because he thought it sounded good. The dance again combines traditional formations through smooth links, finishing with a modified corners pass and turn.

Ann Die, also of the BHS Border Branch, devised Rodney’s Rant for the 80th birthday of Rodney Mount, of the Saltire Scottish Country Dance Club. It includes diagonal rights and lefts, and set and link for three, a lively and technical challenge in jig time.

Orwell Lodge Strathspey, devised by Ian Brockbank of Edinburgh Branch, will be popular with those who like short strathspeys. A three couple dance, it has straightforward formations with a tricky turn into the half poussette at the end.

The dance and tune (Jane’s Thirtieth, composed by John of Bon Accord, another great original by George Meikle) is dedicated to Jane Purves, for a birthday party held at the Orwell Lodge.

Orwell Lodge Strathspey.

The other dances have attractive and suitable tunes, which, apart from the two mentioned, have been selected by the Music Committee. The music published in the book includes chord symbols, but unusually, no left hand part for the piano, which is a shame in encouraging more pianists for dancing.

All the dances have attractive and suitable tunes, which, apart from the two mentioned, have been selected by the Music Committee. The music published in the book includes chord symbols, but unusually, no left hand part for the piano, which is a shame in encouraging more pianists for dancing.

I am sure the dances will prove popular. In addition to the dances from RSCDS books we have the drums. This is a very well balanced recording, and, as Linda Gaul writes “As you would expect from a Sarah Downie on fiddle. The rhythm section has some “old” friends helping to round off the overall sound: Rodney Matthews on fiddle and David Ashbridge on drums. There are 12 dances from the new Book and three from the 50th Anniversary Book.

Most of the original tunes have been composed by Ian Thow, who played for the Branch for many years, and there is a lovely strathspey composed by Roddy.

This is a very fine recording with Robert and Roddy blending well on the melody, and some excellent harmonies from Graeme. Some interesting tunes throughout include, I think for the first time, “The Star o’ Rabbie Burns” recorded as a pastoral strathspey. I highly recommend the book and CD.

A Jig for Helen, Peter and Madeleine Quince

At a Special Class of the BHS Border Branch on 19th September, Mervyn Short will be teaching on the new dances. Everyone intermediate and above is welcome. For further details contact Shirley Ferguson, 01275 501952.

A CD of the music is currently being prepared, and it is hoped that this will be available for the Society AGM.

Dear Jeremy

Stephen Webb’s letter makes a valid point regarding dance titles. Any deviser could refer to the Napier Index, or to either of the two websites that have a comprehensive list of over ten thousand dances in the modern repertoire. But even this would not solve the problem as it is not unknown for two or more dances with the same previously unused title to appear in different parts of the Scottish dancing world within a few days of each other. The only solution would be for a central controller to be informed by each deviser of the title which he intended to use for his next dance, so that they could be recorded in advance thus enabling permission to be granted for the use of that particular title and reserving it against all comers. There could be problems in regard to competitions where several devisers all submit suggestions for the use of the same title. In one such case more than a dozen dances were submitted for one title, but by the time that the competition had been judged, the title concerned had been used by a deviser who was unaware of the competition.

Prior to Playford, there were no books of dance instructions. There were a number of manuscripts, produced for Balls, giving the names of the tunes to be played during the course of the evening, followed by the figures to be performed on that occasion. Inevitably some instructions became attached to a particular tune and were repeated on several occasions. In Playford there are examples of tunes appearing in several editions (not necessarily consecutive) with different sets of figures.

The majority of publishers produced books of music, with suggestions of the figures to be performed to them. Taking one tune as an example, “The Dusty Miller” first published in Dublin by John & William Neal, in 1726. There were at least fourteen different versions of the dance instructions prior to the definitive version published by the RSCDS.

At Georgian Assemblies, the name of a tune was announced and, after sets had been formed, the first lady on one line would be asked to announce the figures to be performed on that occasion – probably never to be repeated. This saved participants from having to refer to ccribs between dances. It follows that giving instruction before each dance is an old well established tradition.

Rutherford produced some excellent books of dances, many of the dances comprised almost identical sets of figures, with possibly only a two bar difference. In some of his books the same set of figures were printed against more than one tune.

In the nineteenth century new tunes were printed by many different publishers, each of whom gave different dance instructions. Some of the publishers put any set of figures down regardless of whether or not they fitted the music. One particular (32 bar) set of figures appeared in fourteen different books under the name of a different tune in each one (in one of the books it was a 24 bar tune). Of course, as we are all aware the figures for the Duke of Perth, are known also as Clean Pease Strae, Brown’s Reel and some other titles, even though these tunes also appeared in other books with different instructions.

The publication of sets of dance instructions by name appears to be a twentieth century innovation, which has alleviated much of the confusion which previously existed. Even though a dance with a particular title may no longer be attached to the tune with the same title. The RSCDS has done much to eliminate this confusion by publishing a definitive version of dances. In the meantime if non-RSCDS dances, where more than one version exists, are included in a programme, the organisers should include a reference to the version which is to be performed or a suitable crib if possible. (One deviser indicated that if a crib was produced for any of his dances he would sue the organizer concerned for breach of copyright; as it reduced the demand for his publication).

Finally I was at one Ball, where there was confusion over the choice of dance and music. Throughout the evening one particular set consistently performed different figures to the rest of the room.

Name That Dance

Dear Jeremy

Stephen Webb asks us to imagine what would happen if after doing one’s homework a similarly named dance were to appear on programme. Indeed this did happen at a monthly dance in Toronto. On the programme was Lady C Bruce’s Reel. The advanced dancers who glanced quickly at Pilling beforehand thought it merely shorthand for Lady Catherine Bruce’s Reel. Those with Pilling were ready with the latter while the ever diligent beginners who had studied the crib sheet won the day!

Maggie Thomas

My name is Maggie Thomas, My father came from Wales, My mother from a village In the northern Yorkshire dales.

My grandmother was Irish, And, if I’ve got it right, My uncle kept a lighthouse Just off the Isle of Wight.

I’ve scrutinised the records And I’ve searched the family tree, And there is not one single drop Of Scottish blood in me.

When I go Scottish Dancing I’d love to cut a dash In a long white proper evening gown And my own clan tartan sash.

I envy other people In red and blue and green, I want to have a tartan I want to join the scene.

I thought I’d call myself Macaw, Macintosh or Machine, But they belong to other things, I want a name that’s mine.

And so the only thing to do Is cheat a little bit, And give myself a Scottish name, So I can make a hit.

And so, Miss Maggie Thomas is, By Deed Poll, do not mock at her, Now known by her Scottish name, She’s bee-ing Maggie Knockater!

Dances RSCDS or non RSCDS

Dear Jeremy

In Issue 279 of The Reel there is a letter from Brian Wood, signed in his capacity as secretary of RSCDS Herefordshire Branch. I would like to point out that the views expressed are his own and should not be taken to represent those of the Branch.

No opinion has been sought or expressed by the Branch as a whole, although at a recent committee meeting it was found that most individuals present disagreed with Mr Wood’s views and thought that functions under the RSCDS “umbrella” should contain a substantial number of Society dances.

Fran Smith

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Jeremy

Enthusiasm abounds among less experienced dancers discovering the delights of Scottish country dancing, and acquiring new skills and knowledge. However, is this valuable asset, which could help regenerate Scottish country dancing, being sufficiently utilised? Enthusiasm becomes challenged when new, less experienced dancers tackle the next step from their classes, to attending the average dance where complicated modern dances dominate programmes. They may give up. Declining membership is a countrywide problem. As age takes its toll, how do we help our Less Experienced dancers to take their place?

Running dances for the Less Experienced is a good first step (see The Reel 279), but what next? One beginner asked which Club runs practices for London Branch Dances, and Summer Tuesdays, and was aghast when he realised that homework, using a crib, and prior knowledge of formations was required. (He didn’t attend the Branch Dance). Yet it is hugely beneficial for Less Experienced dancers to attend ‘real’ dances, to see how phrasing, covering and good teamwork transform dancing, how experienced dancers don’t require walk-throughs, and to enjoy the uplift of live, rather than recorded music.

Gerrards Cross SCD Club typifies the above scenario. Once a thriving group, membership dropped, until closure looked likely. Introducing and encouraging beginners reversed this, but means the Club currently has a high percentage of Less Experienced dancers. Their Tea Dance was geared to this group too, but included some dances for experienced dancers, whose help was a major factor in the event’s success. Superb displays of Highland Dancing by Lesley Fidell enhanced the proceedings (see photo, p.11) and as a bonus inspired improved posture and pointed toes! The Tea Dance will be repeated next year, but countrywide what should be the next step?

A solution from New Zealand may merit: the NZ Branch selects nine core dances each year (all from RSCDS publications), six of which must be included in every dance programme nationwide. This ensures some degree of commonality between programmes. With something solid to aim for!

To maintain the enthusiasm of better dancers, some clubs, for example Chiswick, have found a ‘traffic-light’ format helpful. The Less Experienced can dance ‘green’ dances, or ‘black’ dances with a good partner; but ‘red’ dances are just for the experienced, so the inexperienced don’t spoil it for them. In this way programmes can have something for everyone, What are your views?

RSCDS LONDON
BRANCH ACCOUNTS
2011 – 2012

As promised at the recent AGM, here are my comments on the accounts. The accounts show a net outgoing resource figure of £6,863 – but £3,175 was a result of writing off the balance of the stock of Anniversary CDs, leaving the operating loss at £3,688, which was a better than last year’s £5,077 but not sustainable even for the short term, hence the measures we are planning to put in place. The tentative recovery in the stock market seems to have halted as there was a small unrealised loss of £529 in our investments this year.

The accounts are constructed in such a way as to make it easier to work out, by subtracting costs from income, how the Branch has done in each area of activity: classes, youth activities, dances, publicity, bookstall and demonstration team.

Class fees, less hire of halls, less teachers’ and musicians’ expenses: £12,387 - £893 = £11,494.

The net cost of Youth Activities was £1,295, with the children’s class subsidised by £858 from the Telfer donation. The costs reflect the support from the Branch for the two dances and the classes. The Telfer funds will last two more years at this level of expenditure, but the Anniversary Fund for youth outreach remains unspent.

Dances produced a surplus of £662 (income of £8,583 less expenditure of £7,924), thanks to good turnout at the Christmas and Burns’ Night dances but there was poor attendance at the rest. This is more than £800 less than budget. Regrettably, the price of dance tickets has had to be increased for this class.

The net deficit on Publicity this year was £964 – however, the Westwood fund contributed the £580 cost of the Open Air Dancing. The Reel made a loss there with the number of subscribers and the Life and Long Term Members’ appeal fund has been exhausted. Advertising revenue was also down. It has been decided to increase the cost of advertising and also to have another Life Members’ appeal.

The Bookstall generated a surplus of £175 thanks largely to the efforts of Ian Anderson.

The Demonstration team appears as “fundraising activities” i.e. £ 1,584 - £ 4,055 = £2,471 deficit, reflecting the promotional work done on behalf of the Branch by the Team. The extra five weeks of the summer term were self-financing to reduce costs. From September 2012 class fees will be re-introduced for this class.

The only other figure to comment on is the Anniversary Fund which has been reduced by £580 cost of the Open Air Dancing. –

US Scottish Country Dancing - Is it so Different?

At first, it didn’t seem daunting to write an article for The Reel about the differences between Scottish country dancing in the UK and the US.

There were obvious differences, of course. Scottish country dancing is not indigenous to the US so there is far more enthusiasm on the part of US settlers to pursue it. The Wednesday night group of 40 dancers in Alexandria, Virginia boasts more than half a dozen certified RSCDS teachers.

But then I had to face some home truths. Except for a few summers in St Andrews, most of my 20 years of dancing was social dancing at the Little Ship Club in London, not strictly RSCDS and not characteristic of the UK. Then too, I’ve not danced long in the US, and only in the Washington DC area. I couldn’t write with credibility. Walking into the Wednesday evening class, however, I realized “But I know a man who can”.

Jay Andrews has danced for about 30 years in the US and Scotland. He’s chairman of the RSCDS Northern Virginia Branch, and a member of the Washington DC and International Branches. He was fully certificated in St Andrews in 2004. He teaches classes in Virginia and Maryland.

Jay suggests that there are enough differences to be interesting:
- Strathspeys are generally played faster in Scotland than in the US;
- When teaching or attending classes in the US you see more of the “Where am I supposed to be at the end of bar X” attitude from dancers than you do in Scotland;
- Dance programmes in Scotland are frequently longer than their American counterparts. A Washington DC Branch Welcome dance usually has 12 dances and a major ball might have 15 or 16 plus repeats. English and Scottish balls commonly have 18 or more dances, plus extra and repeats;
- Generally speaking, the dance repertoire is different. There are dances such as the Duke of Perth and Mairi’s Wedding that are popular on both sides of the Atlantic, but the Wee Cooper O’ Fife, for example, rarely appears on US programmes, though not uncommon in Scotland or Europe;
- Both US and UK programme devisers provide a variety of dances to accommodate the full range of skills, from beginner to expert. Recently, though, there has been a trend in the US to include less challenging dances on programmes, perhaps reflecting the aging of the Scottish country dance population;
- The majority of UK SCD bands are accordion based whereas, fiddles dominate in the US. With the dissolution of The Music Makars and the death of (Canadian) Bobby Brown, really good North American accordion-based bands are few and far between.
- There’s more birling in the UK than in the US. I’d say this is an understatement: I’ve yet to see an elbow grip here.

With all this, the similarities are more striking than the differences. Scottish country dancers are unflaggingly welcoming to newcomers, whether beginner or skilled. And when the music starts, the smiles are in place and feet move.

Popularity of Dancing

Dear Jeremy

I’d like to reply to the letter on the Popularity of Dancing in The Reel 280.

I have danced since I was six years old. For the first unmentionable years of my life I reeled. I even danced on the White Heather Club with music by Jimmy Shand (who makes Frank Reid sound slow, and everyone else sound as if they’re playing a dirge). It was quite a shock to me when I discovered (in my 40s) that there were thousands of other dances – not just the usual 8 – 12 that I knew so well. I rapidly became interested in learning these dances, which I mostly now know like the back of my hand.

I dance regularly at St Columba’s, Pont Street on both a Monday (Scottish country dancing) and a Tuesday (London Reels). Despite my pleas as a member of the Monday dancing committee, they will not ask the Reelers, even when there is a “Combined Hall-Users Dancing”, saying they “can’t dance”. I have suggested the Reel be called “Strathspey Reel”, Foursome Reel, Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, Duke of Perth, Mairi’s Wedding, Hamilton House and maybe a few “new” dances such as the White Heather Jig, and an easy strathspey such as Mairymusk, but no, the SCD people will not do it. So, I go off to both, and have a BALL. I dance with one of my younger daughter’s former classmates (they are both 22). The first time I did so, Will treated me as if were made of Dresden china, so I reluctantly followed the rest. However, we both had a bloomin’ good time.

So, unless you want your club to go the same way as the Chelsea Reel Club (which died of old age five years ago), wake up and include the Reelers. You never know, they may be like me and actually dance! Paperback books are published about the differences between Scottish and US Scottish dancing. I have had a paperback in my library for about 5 years, but I have not read it;

Dancing to your own club is a great thing, but you cannot learn as much as you can from others. For example, I have always attended the International Reels for my classes. I have attended 3 International Reels since the beginning of 2012, where we are taught the dances, and there is perhaps a new dance which I have never danced before.

With all this in mind, I would like to express my thanks to my fellow officers and members who are always on top of their paperwork and enable me to keep the records on the straight and narrow. Also to Lena Robinson who acts as classes cashier and is most conscientious in her banking. As ever, the biggest thanks are due to the hospitality of Peter Knight who acts as classes cashier and is most conscientious in her banking. As ever, the biggest thanks are due to

BERKHAMSTED DIAMOND JUBILEE

As part of their Diamond Celebrations, 100 past and present members of Berkhamsted Strathspey and Reel Club allowed themselves a bit of self-indulgence and gathered for a Tea Party on Saturday 5 May 2012. The venue, Potten End Village Hall, has been the club’s dancing home firstly on Saturday evenings and then on Tuesdays for the vast majority of its 60 years.

Guests enjoyed a sumptuous traditional afternoon tea of homemade sandwiches, scenes and cakes, provided by ladies of the club, led by Pat Mitner, who were complemented by an interesting range of teas kindly donated by Malcolm Ferris-Lay of The Tea Consultancy. Altogether 30 former members attended, some travelling from as far as Devon, Harrogate and Ayrshire, showing tremendous loyalty. There were 14 Past Presidents as well as numerous past Secretaries and Treasurers.

As the club’s current President, I asked Colin Garrett to cut the celebration cake and propose a chalice of toast to the club’s past and future. (Well known Berkhamstedian, Colin was not only the earliest-joining member present, but also a former President and teacher at the club.)

A range of photographs taken from the club’s history were on display as well as videos of the 40th and 50th Anniversary Balls, which gave rise to much reminiscing!

The afternoon was rounded off with an hour’s easy dancing to sparkling music provided by local accordionist, Ian Robertson who was joined by son Tom on the drums, all guided by MC Robert Baker-Glenn (see photos p.11).

Altogether there was an exceptional atmosphere and feeling of bonhomie which will be remembered for a very long time and proving that very special friendships are made from Scottish country dancing.

CHISWICK SCOTTISH COUNTRY DANCE CLUB

Scottish Dancing finale at Chiswick House

Dave Hall’s dance band belted out great Scottish dance tunes at Chiswick House Gardens on Sunday evening, 1 July, as over eighty people danced on the grassy lawns of Chiswick House for the club’s wonderful end of term “Midsummer Magic” Picnic Dance. Ken and Bar Martlew were magnificent MCs for the night, helping everyone through a fine selection of dances for everyone.

Club Chairman Nick Haimendorf says, “Seeing people have such fun makes all the preparation really worthwhile. It’s a fantastic evening for everyone and a great end to our dancing season.”

A programme of 16 dances of varying levels had something for everyone. Dave Hall was joined by Alistair Forbes and Bob Parsons, who together produced a well-balanced and excellent sound. Ruth Beattie had travelled down from Glasgow to be there and meeting up with her son Kenneth. Although cool, the weather was kind with much sunshine and none of the forecast showers. The evening’s dancing ended traditionally with Auld Lang Syne as the circle on the ground was shone on from above with an almost full moon from a blue evening sky. Altogether a splendid evening!

POPULAR DANCES

John Marshall from Cheltenham and Amanda Peart from Peterborough have submitted statistics on dances featuring on programmes respectively in the West and East Midlands. The results can be seen in the table below. For comparison, Swiss Lassie appeared on 12 (32%) of 37 dance programmes in the West on Land, and Pelorus Jack on 15 (44%) of 34 programmes in the East Midlands.

Some interesting conclusions may be reached: significant differences between the areas, with only four dances appearing on both lists; some dances are popular in one area but don’t appear at all in the other (e.g. Broadford Bay only in the West, and A Trip to Bavaria only on East Midlands programmes); how much some dances vary year on year; and how few traditional dances appear on either list.

LITTLE SHIP CLUB
40th Anniversary Celebration
The Little Ship Scottish Dance Club held its 40th Anniversary Celebration dance on Thursday 17 May at St Columba’s Main Hall. The Club was formed by Peter Knight and others in 1972 when dancers met at the Little Ship Sailing Club in the City of London and subsequently moved to Pont Street.

It was a spectacular event and showed St Columba’s at its best, as the screens were moved to reveal the huge windows, aisles and alcoves as originally intended by the church’s well-known architect, Edward Maufe. Within the alcoves 12 tables were placed for 122 people and so allowed plenty of room to dance. Scottish, Nautical and Diamond Jubilee decorations set the tone of the evening along with Union and tartan flags. In addition, entirely appropriately for a Little Ship Club, naval signal flags were cleverly used to spell out the message “Congratulations”.

The evening opened with a reception. Guests included many veteran members, in particular Bridget Lorimer and Godfrey Linnett, who had led the Club in the 1990’s. After the reception, dancing began with the round-the-room Nice to See You, and a varied programme of dances followed. A delicious supper of Jubilee Chicken and a puddling of Raspberry Roulade were provided by Nino Harvey-Jones, and copious wine, ever the hallmark of LSC dance evenings, was included. David Hall and Christina Wood, on sparkling form, provided the music.

Throughout the evening, the Club Chairman, thanked Peter for his excellent and steadfast service to the Club and presented him with several gifts. Many will know Peter from his time at Dulwich, Hurlingham and the Little Ship Club where he has taught dancers with patience, imagination and just occasionally, exasperation! He has been MC at all the Little Ship Clubs’ evenings and parties and has only missed two in forty years – what a record!

A pictorial exhibition of the Club’s history was displayed in the foyer, put together by Elizabeth Colquhoun, an early and long-standing member of the Club. It was of great interest and fascination for many members. A number of photographs of the event can be seen on the Club’s website. Thanks are due to all the Committee, Club members and guests for making it such a memorable evening.

Apologies are due to those unable to get tickets, but we look forward to welcoming everyone to our autumn sessions. Further details are available at www.littleshipclubdancing.co.uk.

ORPINGTON AND DISTRICT CALEDONIAN SOCIETY
75th Anniversary
In 1937 a group of Scots living in the Orpington area decided to form a society to keep alive the traditions of their homeland. The Orpington and District Caledonian Society was born and, apart from a break during and immediately after the Second World War, we have continued successfully for 75 years.

The Society held two events recently to celebrate its 75th Anniversary. In May 60 members, past and present (including 16 former Presidents) attended a splendid celebration lunch in the hall of St John’s URC, Orpington, a reminder of the Society’s links over many years with the former Presbyterian Church. A cake was cut by the President Sheila Brown together with Esme MacBain who joined the Society in 1952: a member for 60 years! The date Esme joined could be seen in the membership book for those early years which was part of a display of material from the Society’s archives which provided the source of much reminiscing and interest for those present.

Dancing was always a feature of the Society’s activities, though by no means the only one, especially in the earlier years. Programmes from those early years show many ballroom dances alongside Scottish country dances, some of the former still featuring in the late 60s before the Scottish country dancing took over almost completely. The Society has been active in the Kentish Association of Scottish Societies since 1952 and became affiliated to RSCDS in 1966.

It was therefore appropriate that an important part of our celebrations was an Anniversary Ball in June for 140, held at Bromley High School with dancing by Robin Ellis and his Band (Robin, incidentally, is a longstanding member and former President of the Society). Dancers from the Society’s Monday’s beginners/improvers class mixed with the regulars from the Thursday evening and Monday afternoon social dancing, together with many friends from clubs and societies in a wide area. Dances included Anniversary Reel – of course – and 75 Years On, for which Robin wrote a tune for the occasion, along with a mix of Scottish country dances which had featured in the Society’s programmes over the years, some going back to the 50s. It was a great evening, much enjoyed by everyone who came.

We are grateful that the Society is still in good heart and is continuing the traditions of its founders. Scottish country dancing is alive in Orpington. Long may that continue.

RSCDS MEDAL TEST RESULTS
In July, young dancers in the London area were successful in the RSCDS Medal Tests. Margaret Ross travelled from Inverness to Bexleyheath to assess candidates from the Upland Dancers, who were joined by dancers from RSCDS Milton Keynes Branch. Separately dancers from the Medway and District Scottish Association were assessed by Rachel Wilton. Congratulations to the dancers and their teachers, and many thanks to Margaret and Rachel for being so supportive on the day.

Dancers at the Branch’s recent Open Air Dancing in Kensington Gardens dancing A London Celebration. There is further Open Air Dancing on 1 and 8 September.

ON THEIR TRAVELS

London Branch members Dave and Judy Hall and their children have packed their bags as Dave has taken up a work assignment in Kenya. We wish them all the very best, and hope they will continue to find time for some dancing and music while they are there. Given the historic connections, perhaps the dance should be the Earl of Errol.
